President's Letter

!I have no idea what happened to the month of October. I was sad to have to miss last month's meeting and want to thank Penny for taking my place. I am looking forward to meeting again in person on November 11, 2024. The next meeting will be an in-person and zoom meeting so make sure to watch email before the meeting for the zoom link so you can join from home if you are unable to attend in person.

I am especially excited to hear from our guest Martina Celerin, who will be joining via zoom. I was looking at her website and I believe we are all in for a fascinating talk.

I hope everyone has a wonderful Thanksgiving!

"Dimensional Weaving: My Journey from Scientist to Fiber Artist"

This is a Zoom & In-Person Meeting

Our meeting place is Portage United Church of Christ
2731 W. Milham Drive, Portage, MI

Visitors and Guests are welcome!

"I have been a painter using oil pastels and acrylics, but became dissatisfied with the flatness of the art. I began gluing found objects onto the canvas, then creating the canvas by weaving it, allowing me to incorporate objects, textures and shapes and adding needle felting to push the dimensional limits of wall art, creating weaving-felting fusions that are 3D tapestries."

Martina Celerin is a Bloomington, IN resident. Although she earned a PhD in plant sciences and accepted a postdoctoral position as a molecular geneticist in the Biology Department at Indiana University, she has transitioned from scientist to artist. Her work is inspired by nature and her imagination, integrating materials, landscapes or emotions from her travels and experiences. Martina has presented talks, workshops and exhibitions throughout the US.

November 13, 2024 Double Weave Pleats with Sara Nordling

Double weave pleats began as an inquiry for Sara Nordling. How do you get a knife edge pleat to form on the surface of a fabric? The basic technique, as it turns out, is not that complicated. Once she had figured that out, what kept Sara making them are the very things that interested her about weaving to begin with: they have a tactile quality that makes you want to touch them, and there are so many ways they can be played with. Double weave pleats also provided her with a series to use for her M.F.A. thesis show. Join Sara as she takes you on the journey of double weave pleats from the basic technique to the many ways she has used them in her work for her thesis and beyond.

November 12: Episode #200!

Alex Friedman

Generously sponsored by Cheryl Riniker

While working as a model builder in an architectural office in Cambridge, Massachusetts, Alex Friedman took an evening weaving class and became instantly fascinated with the many possibilities of woven textiles. This led her to a job in New York City, weaving shaped tapestries for the bulkheads of a fleet of Pan Am 747 jumbo jets. Since then, Alex has maintained an active tapestry studio. By manipulating the warp, using eccentric weft, leaving slits, and/or adding embellishments, she creates unique dynamic surface movement. She has participated in solo and juried exhibitions in the US and abroad, including the Textile Symposium in St. Petersburg, Russia. She was an Artist in Residence in Surrey, England and her tapestries have been featured in the Art in Embassies program. Her work has received awards and been published in numerous catalogs and recent textile books. Alex served as the President and Co-Director of the American Tapestry Alliance, and currently serves on the Board of the Textile Arts Council at the deYoung Museum in San Francisco.

Patrice George

Generously sponsored by Weaving Friends

Patrice George recently retired from the Fashion Institute of Technology (FIT) where she was Associate Professor in the Textile Development and Marketing Department for 18 years. She specialized in woven textile design, history of the textile industry, and sustainable solutions for textile production. She fell in love with weaving as a high-school exchange student to Sweden; this interest grew at University of Michigan. Post-graduation, she spent a year exploring textiles in India, then studied traditional handweaving in Sweden. In 1974, she moved to NYC to work as a handweaver/designer. In 1979, she founded her studio, Patrice George Designs, specializing in woven fabrics for interiors. Patrice later developed courses in computer-aided woven design for the School of Visual Arts, Parsons and FIT. She taught digital woven design at the University of Industrial Arts in Helsinki, Finland, as a Fulbright Scholar. She has also worked with global textile development projects in Jamaica, Mexico, and Laos.

As a teacher, Natalie seeks to give new weavers a grounding in the fundamentals, but always with a mind open to new discovery and unique expression. She teaches daily loom weaving classes to weavers working at all levels of experience, as well as monthly basketry workshops.
